GERMANY LOSES ELEVEN WAR VESSELS IN NAVAL BATTLE IN RIGA GULF

RUSSIANS DO WHOLESALE SINKING ACCORDING TO OFFICIAL STATEMENT FROM PETROGRAD.

SINK ONE DREADNAUGHT

Two Cruisers and Eight torpedo Boats. Make Up List of German Losses. —French Sink German Ship Off Ostend.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Aug. 23.—An official Russian communication descriptive of the naval battle in Gulf of Riga was forwarded today from Petrograd by a correspondent of the Central News. It gives the German losses as one dreadnaught, two cruisers and eight torpedo boats. The statement follows:

"In the Gulf of Riga, between August 16 and 18, the Russian fleet sank or damaged no fewer than two German cruisers and eight torpedo boats. At the same time a British submarine sank one of the best German dreadnaughts.

"The Russian gunboat Stivuch was sunk in a brilliant fight in the course of which she sank a German torpedo boat, while she herself was in flames and sinking."

The foregoing statement tallies with previous advices, except that the German losses were given as three cruisers and seven torpedo boats.

Another German Boat Lost.

Paris, Aug. 23.—Two French torpedo boats encountered and sank a German torpedo boat destroyer off Ostend (Belgium) last night," says an announcement made here today.

"Our boats were undamaged."

Entente Allies Jubilant.

London, Aug. 23.—The capitals of the entente allies are jubilant today over unexpected naval victory which the Russians, according to their account, have won in the Gulf of Riga. England had more than a sympathetic interest in the battle as a British submarine accounted for the German battle cruiser Moltke, the loss of which, added to the destruction of two cruisers, eight torpedo boats and four transports, constitutes the greatest naval disaster suffered by Germany during the war.

For the last week both Petrograd and Berlin have been sending meager reports of naval operations in the Gulf of Riga, which were interpreted to mean Germany was attempting to land forces for the purpose of supporting the left flank of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg in his efforts to overrun the whole of Courland, and thereby establish his armies on the coast route to the Russian capital.

Official Report.

The official Russian report claiming a decisive victory for the allies, together with the expulsion of the surviving units of the German naval forces from the Gulf, contains a few details in addition to an enumeration of German losses. It is assumed that as much as Petrograd announced several days ago that her large warships had returned from the gulf, the Russian fleet was assisted by submarines and land defense, reeked unexpected destruction on part of the German fleet and transports. The moral effect of this action on Russian people is expected in London to be great, as it probably will do much to play the depression incident to the continued Russian retreat which has been arrested.

Supreme Advantage.

British military critics regard the Baltic advance of the Germans as of supreme importance if the invaders really contemplate marching on Petrograd. On that account the Russian naval victory may be of large effect on German plans.

Italy's declaration of war on Turkey has not yet led to definite result so far as is known here, but it is expected to have great effect on Roumania, which has been in contact closely with Italy.

From the Franco-Belgian front comes a report of artillery duels accompanied by infantry activity.

British Submarine Active.

Sofia, Aug. 23.—The Turkish collier Asphan has been torpedoed by a British submarine at Haidar Pasha, and the steamer Budush, of the German-Levante line, loaded with munitions and provisions, has been sunk in the Sea of Marmora.

STEAMER LAPLAND SAFE ARRIVING AT LIVERPOOL

New York, Aug. 23.—The White Star steamship line on Sunday announced the safe arrival of the liner Lapland. The vessel docked at Liverpool.

Associated Press Learns All Resources To Be At Call of Czar—Okuma Makes Statement.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Bul. Tokio, August 23.—The Kokum Shinbun says:

"Premier Okuma states that Japan has decided to give greater assistance to Russia to prosecute the war. He would not discuss details but allowed it to be understood that this assistance would take the form of the forwarding of greater supplies of munitions."

The Associated Press learns that Japan has decided to employ all available governmental and private resources for increasing the output of munitions for the allies, particularly Russia.

The Japanese government believed the time has arrived for more concerted action against the enemies of Japan and her allies.

FLOOD IN ST. LOUIS COSTS TWELVE LIVES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] St. Louis, Aug. 23.—St. Louis county is recovering today from the third calamity which has descended upon the community in as many days—a flood of the Meramec river, which snuffed out at least twelve lives, possibly many more, destroyed more than $1,000,000 worth of property and made 2,000 families homeless.

Twelve deaths had been reported to the coroner this morning and almost 100 persons listed as missing. River men acquainted with the situation fear the falling of the Meramec today may disclose a heavy loss of life.

CARRANZA'S ENVOY WON'T TALK PEACE

Speaking Dates at County Fair Interrupts Contemplated Hatcher's Visit.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Aug. 23.—Owing to the extensive speaking dates at county fairs by Governor Philipp, his contemplated trip on the fish boat Bagler, to the state fish hatcheries, with a party of state officers, has been called off. The car left today for Neenah on rescue work. Millions of minnows have collected before the sluiceway at the paper mills and these will be seized and taken down the Fox river valley toward Green Bay.

Due to the increased prestige given to the conversations between the state and the legislature, many more convictions for violations of the fish and game laws will be secured throughout the state than heretofore. Convictions at the hands of justices of the peace in Marinette county, C. W. Thompson, specialist in charge of rural organization for the United States department of agriculture, spent several days here making a study of the state land mortgage banks organized under the Wisconsin rural credit law, which has been in effect little over a year. By means of the co-operative cattle buying plans, bankers, business men and farmers have provided a plan of supplying farmers with graded and registered dairy cattle and letting them pay for the cattle in from three to five years. In most instances the cattle earn more than enough to meet the payments as they fall due.

ELISEO ARREDONDO (top) and Enrique Lorente.

An effort on the part of Enrique Lorente, General Villa's representative in Washington, to get together with Eliseo Arredondo, General Carranza's representative, and talk peace has been sternly rebuffed by Arredondo. Carranza's representative says that his chief is near success in Mexico and will not consider getting together with his enemies whom he can eventually defeat.

DIFFICULTIES IN WAY OF GERMAN ADVANCE ON THE RUSSIAN CAPITAL

The enormous difficulties in the way of a German advance on Petrograd are clearly shown by the map. From the nearest point to the Russian capital yet reached by the Germans the distance is more than 350 miles, and nearly all the way the land is a vast marsh, interspersed with small and large lakes and rivers, and there is only one easily destroyed railroad. The objective of the Germans in the future, as in the past, is likely to be the Russian field army, which still refuses to be cornered and still retreats into the interior.

HAITIANS ORGANIZE TO CRUSH INVADER; U. S. TAKES ACTION

Tennessee With Artillery and Three Hundred and Fifty Troops to Sail This Week.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Aug. 23.—Reliable reports that Haitian rebels have been organizing an army to attack the American forces on the island are responsible for plans now being carried out to reinforce Rear Admiral Caperton's marines and blue jackets.

The marine artillery battalion at Annapolis, comprising 350 men and 12 3-inch field pieces will be embarked on the cruiser Tennessee and sent to southern waters this week to await developments at some place near where Admiral Caperton can land them in a few hours. Admiral Caperton today reports quiet at Cape Haitien and Port au Prince, but said it had been necessary to take over the custom house at St. Marc.

NO FISH CAR TRIP FOR THE GOVERNOR

Speaking Dates at County Fair Interrupts Contemplated Hatcher's Visit.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Aug. 23.—Owing to the extensive speaking dates at county fairs by Governor Philipp, his contemplated trip on the fish boat Bagler, to the state fish hatcheries, with a party of state officers, has been called off. ## BULGARIA TO KEEP NEUTRAL SAYS BERLIN

SIGNS AGREEMENT WITH TURKEY SAYS ADVICES FROM SOFIA AND CONSTANTINOPLE.

ITALY WARS ON TURKEY

Will Join With Entente Allies in Attack on Dardanelles According to Previously Accepted Plan.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Berlin, wireless Overseas News Agency, Aug. 23.—Official reports from Sofia and Constantinople state that Turkey and Bulgaria have signed a new treaty, Turkey granting Bulgaria her desired direct railroad connection with the sea, and Bulgaria agreeing to observe a benevolent neutrality.

Burden for Morgenthau.

Rome, August 23, via Paris.—Appreciation is expressed here by the government circles and by the people of the weighty burden undertaken by the American embassy at Constantinople, in the protection of Italian interests in Turkey. Unofficially hopes are expressed that the United States will send additional warships to render the representation of Ambassador Morgenthau effective.

Many Italians are employed as laborers in the interior of the Turkish empire, remote from the direct influence on American consuls.

To Join With Allies.

Udine, Italy, Aug. 23, via Paris.—The fact is disclosed that joint military action by Italy with England, France and Russia, against Turkey, was being planned by the Italian general staff during his visit to the Anglo-French staff in July. Plans studied then, it is said, can be put into action immediately.

Serbia Makes Concession.

Milan, Aug. 23.—One of the main difficulties in the way of a solution of the Balkan question, favorable to the entente allies, has been settled, according to an interview with Premier Pachitch of Serbia, published in the Corriere Della Sera. The Premier is quoted as saying that Serbia has given way to Italy regarding Albania.

Evacuate Adriatic Island.

Vienna, Aug. 23.—The admiralty announced today that reconnaissance on Saturday established the fact that the Italians had evacuated the island of Pelagosa in the Adriatic sea, having destroyed all buildings and fortifications.

Italian Transports Leave.

Rome, Aug. 23.—Several transports laden with troops and escorted by warships have departed from Naples, Syracuse, Taranto and Brindisi for the north of Greece, as a reserve for the under sealed orders. It is generally believed they are to be employed for operations against Turkey.

More Work for Embassy.

Washington, Aug. 23.—With Italy's declaration of war on Turkey, the American embassy in Constantinople probably will be asked to take over the interests in Turkey and those of Russia, for whom Italy has been acting.

INDIANS GET SHARE OF ASHLAND TIMBER

Property Worth Nearly A Million Dollars is Divided Among 547 Indians on Reservation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Ashland, August 23.—Pine timbers, valued at $520,000 on the Bad river reservation near Ashland, will be distributed among 547 Indians, many of whom are children, according to official notice received by Indian office from the secretary of interior today. In addition to the timbers each Indian will have title to the land on which timber stands, averaging about eighty acres for each person.

It is claimed by government experts that the Chippewa Indians of that river reservation are the richest tribe in America with one exception. There is over a million and a half dollars to the credit of the members of the tribe, already in vaults of Ashland and Duluth, from sales of pine from former allotments.

Although the former allottees of the reservation will soon have about $2,000,000 in the banks and the new allottees will also have comfortable bank accounts, expenditures of this money is closely supervised. The Indians are developing farms and are introducing pedigreed cattle on to the reservation and their annual fairs are a revelation.

U. S. CUTTER SEEKING GULF STORM VICTIMS

Miami Ordered Into Sea Territory Swept by West Indian Hurricane.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Aug. 23.—The coast guard cutter, Miami, at Key West, Fla., was ordered to proceed westward along the gulf coast to search for wrecks and vessels in distress, due to the West Indian hurricane. An unknown schooner is reported sunk on the Louisiana coast, and a number of vessels are missing, including the steamer Marowitch from Honduras, which carried 28 passengers and crew of five.

VILLA WILL ATTACK OBREGON'S FORCES

Mobilizes in Vicinity of Torreón Preparatory to Campaign of Gorilla Warfare.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] El Paso, Texas, Aug. 23.—Arrivals from northern Mexico today disclosed General Villa is mobilizing his forces at Torreón, preparatory to a gorilla warfare against General Obregon in the belief that Obregon's forces and superior in organization and equipment. Sixty pieces of artillery have been parked at Santa Clara and Santa Rosalia, many miles to the north of Torreón, as a reserve for the gorilla bands which are reported to be planned at units of 1,000 men. General Villa is said to have 2,000 men including the expeditionary force, arrived recently from the south.

A report of the hospital service at Chihuahua shows more than 12,000 wounded have been treated since March 1.

Fear Border Trouble.

Corpus Christi, Texas, Aug. 23.—Refugees reaching here today from San Diego, Texas, birthplace of the plan of San Diego, for a revolution in Mexico, reported that refugees in that vicinity are sending their families here for safety.

They said only thirteen American men remain in San Diego. Mexicans there are all reported armed and all said to have been buying ammunition in quantities. Five soldiers of the border patrol at Brownsville were today ordered to San Diego.

Troopers Fired Upon.

Douglas, Ariz., Aug. 23.—Troopers of the tenth cavalry doing patrol duty near Lochie, Ariz., were fired upon yesterday and returned the fire, which is supposed to have come from renegade Mexicans professing allegiance to Carranza. There were no casualties.

Deaths from Starvation.

Mexico City, (by courier to Vera Cruz, Aug. 16,) via New Orleans, Aug. 23.—Deaths by starvation continue in this city and most conservative estimates place them at twenty-five a day.

WIFE BASES THEORY UPON SHIP'S PLAN

MRS. WOODS CONTENDS HUSBAND'S STATEROOM WAS LOCATED IN PORTION STRUCK BY MISSILE.

GETS HIS LAST LETTER

Writes From London Saying He Had Taken Passage Upon the Arabic —London Reports Steamer Was Unarmed.

All hopes that Dr. E. F. Woods may have been rescued with other passengers of the Arabic have been abandoned by both Mrs. Woods and J. T. Fitchett, the doctor's half brother, as the press dispatches, government and steamship reports continue to list his name among the lost.

In fact Mrs. Woods is now of the opinion that Dr. Woods was killed when the torpedo of the German submarine struck the Arabic. She bases this deduction upon a study of a chart of the boat and the number of the stateroom secured by the doctor she believes to be in that part of the boat which was wrecked by the explosion. It is such was the case it is most probable that the doctor was killed outright.

Receives Last Letter.

Mrs. Woods further states that there is every reason to believe that Dr. Woods was in his stateroom at the time of the torpedoing of the ship. He is subject to seasickness on the first two or three days of a voyage, and his usual custom is to remain below decks, and take as little food as possible. This fact would bear out the presumption that he was in his room at the time of the attack.

Mrs. Woods was in receipt this morning of a letter from her husband sent from London a few days before he sailed from Liverpool. This is the last letter which he wrote and will be highly prized. It conveyed the information that the doctor intended to leave shortly for Cambridge to visit several of the war hospitals there, and then to proceed to Liverpool to be there a few days before the sailing of the Arabic, upon which he stated he had taken passage.

On Saturday Mrs. Woods received a cablegram from friends at Liverpool stating that Dr. Woods had left the Arabic, so that there could be no mistake about the fact that he was a passenger on the vessel.

All Janesville Saddened.

All Janesville is saddened over the death of Dr. Woods. It is the one topic of conversation in the city. He is deeply stirred and in many instances the feeling runs high. Dr. Woods was a highly esteemed citizen, big hearted, loyal, charitable, hard working. There are many who feel that his great kindness in time of sickness and affliction, and his memory will be one of the dearest treasures.

It is hard to realize that the tragic death of Dr. Woods is an incident of international importance, which may lead to the gravest complications between this country and Germany. It is safe to predict that every step in the negotiations which shall follow the Arabic's sinking will be followed with breathless interest in this city.

Lansing Cables Gerard.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Secretary Lansing today cabled Ambassador Gerard at Berlin asking if the German government had received an official report on the sinking of the Arabic. The ambassador however, was not instructed to ask for one. It was officially stated that the American government is not yet at all sure of the facts and considers its information very fragmentary.

Important Questions.

In the view of the state department no points have been established beyond doubt regarding the important question of convey the change of port of the Arabic just before the torpedo struck, and other essentials. All the information received aside from the newspaper report, which is fact, is embodied in one brief affidavit by an American, Zeilah Covington. The department regards it as essential that this shall be corroborated and supplemented.

Some Delays.

The department accounts for the apparent delay in securing affidavits by the fact that the Arabic survivors left Queenstown almost immediately upon landing. The American survivors will be the last to find survivors and secure their statement, which may be so worked.

Was Unarmed.

London, August 23.—Supplementing official information given out previously concerning the sinking of the Arabic, the British admiralty today made the following announcement:

"The Arabic was an unarmed passenger ship outward bound, to a neutral port. It was thus impossible for her to have been carrying contraband to this country."

"She was sunk by a German submarine, without warning and she neither attempted to attack the submarine nor to escape from it."

The admiralty today authorized a denial of the report that the steamer Arabic was sunk, was an armed patrol. The admiralty states the Arabic was a peaceful and unarmed trader.

Survivors of the Dunsley stated yesterday she was torpedoed just before the Arabic was sunk and that the German submarine hid behind the Dunsley to lie in wait for the Arabic.

Liner Sunk; Three Dead.

Queenstown, Aug. 23.—The Lamport and Holt liner Dunsley, has been sunk by a German submarine. Her captain, quartermaster and steward were killed by shots fired by the submarine during a pursuit of four hours.

LEADS U. S. FORCES NEAR VERA CRUZ

Rear Admiral Walter McLean, commanding the 4th division of the Atlantic fleet, has been directed to take command of the American forces off Vera Cruz. Admiral McLean's flagship is the U. S. S. Louisiana, which in company with the battleship New Hampshire left Newport recently with sealed orders and was directed by wireless to proceed at once to Vera Cruz.

FORMER AMBASSADOR DRILLING "ROOKIES"

First Sergeant Robert Bacon at Plattburg Encampment.

First Sergeant Robert Bacon, recent ambassador to France, was given temporary command of a platoon of "C" company and told to go as far as he liked with it, in drilling. So eager were the men in the command to show that they knew the war game thoroughly that at times they almost go tawny from Sergeant Bacon. "Please, please, men," came the voice of the former diplomat, "don't hurry so—keep even! Don't rush things. For heaven's sake do this thing right. Don't let us have an awkward squad here."

DEATH OF DR. WOODS TREATED IN PRAYERS

PASTORS ASK FOR DIVINE COMFORT AND GUIDANCE IN CITY'S GREAT SORROW.

HIBBARD IS SPEAKER

"United States Must Keep Laws of God or Scourge of War Will Be Upon Us," Says Missionary.

Prayers for divine comfort and guidance for this city in its time of deep sorrow over the death of Dr. Edmund F. Woods, lost in the sinking of the steamship Arabic on Thursday last, and especially for Mrs. Woods, who has the heart-felt sympathy of the community, were offered yesterday by practically every Janesville pastor. At the union service last evening at the Baptist church, both Reverend Joseph C. Hazen and Reverend T. D. Williams asked for the aid of the Almighty for this nation and the men at Washington who shall guide its destiny in this hour of grave decision at an international crisis.

C. V. Hibbard gave the address of the evening, speaking on "The Conditions in Europe." The congregation packed the church, denoting the success of the union service during the summer season. Mr. Hibbard did not speak of the war's greatest horror, the terrible loss of the Arabic, but rather addressed his audience from the religious standpoint and what effect the struggle has had upon the Christian world. "Today, as we stand near the brink of war, we face the crisis calmly and we should keep the laws of God or we will have the scourge of war upon us," said Mr. Hibbard.

In America one can detect an unusual moral horror of the war in Europe. Americans agree that the combination of bloodshed, crime and tragic events beyond number is sin against civilization. We, as a Christian people, hold thoughts of God as a national ruler, that our country is a chosen nation in the world. "To-day, as we stand near the brink of war, we face the crisis calmly and we should keep the laws of God or we will have the scourge of war upon us," said Mr. Hibbard.

Mr. Hibbard read extracts from several papers and two letters of soldiers to show the power of Christianity in the war. It was pointed out by the speaker that it was the Christian's duty to leave the fate of the war in God's hands, but it was the duty of every man of the warring nations to serve his country and God the best he could. A letter was read from a sixteen-year-old French girl, speaking of her father's death in the fighting, and how her mother, anxious to serve her God and country, had sacrificed to become a nurse and was attending her husband during the long period of being a patient at one of the hospitals. The letter showed that the girl had tried to save her father from the Germans and the desire that God rid their country of the invaders.

Another letter spoke of a French aviator who was in a spectacular duel with a German airplane, showing the feeling that the French officer held toward the Tuons. The article described how the aviator of France mounted above the German ship and shooting down, killed one of the men and wounded the other so severely that the rival machine was captured. The Frenchman wrote, "I am now serving as a nurse on the Swiss border, asking that he might obtain the address of the dead man's mother so that he might beg her pardon for having slain her son. Twice he saw the aviator down across the enemy's camp, risking his life to the shell fire in attempts to drop a missile that contained a letter from the captured aviator to his family. There was no race hatred or bitterness existing between the writer, the aviator, and the Germans."

"There is an awakening of religious thought. It is said that there were three soldiers wounded in a charge between the trenches, a German who was sorely injured, an Englishman and a Frenchman. The Englishman, between the surging lines of fighting men and the first thought of the German was to share his hyperdermic ointment to relieve the pain of the two others. In the misery, pain and horror of war, in facing death, their thoughts were not of slaying one another, but were thoughts of God. They united in song and then prayer was spoken, each in his own language. The German passed away, his body to be cared for by the other two troops. To kill and be killed is truly what the soldiers in the European war are encountering. But every man who

MISCHIEF MAKER.

Now Strong and Robust.
An adult's food that can save a baby proves itself to be nourishing and easily digested and good for big and little folks. A Brooklyn man says:
"When our baby was about eleven months old he began to grow thin and pale. This was attributed to the heat and the fact that his teeth were coming, but in reality, the poor little thing was starving, his mother's milk not being sufficient nourishment."
"One day after he had cried bitterly for an hour, I suggested that my wife try him on Grape-Nuts. She soaked two teaspoonsful in half a cup of warm water for 5 or 6 minutes. Then poured off the liquid and he added a little amount of rich milk and a little sugar. This baby ate ravenously."

"It was not many days before he forgot all about being nursed, and has since lived almost exclusively on Grape-Nuts. Today the boy is strong and robust, and as cute a mischief-maker as a thirteen months old baby is expected to be."
"Use this letter any way you wish for my wife can never praise Grape-Nuts enough after the brightness it has brought to our household."
Grape-Nuts is not made for a baby food, but experience with thousands of babies shows it to be among the best, if not entirely the best in use. Being a scientific preparation of Nature's grains, it is equally effective as a body and brain builder for grown-ups. "There's a Reason."

falls for his nation and gives his life blood, is a seed that will yield a better future.

The war will bring a new moral spirit, a new religious awakening. The effects of the new awakening are being shown at the present time and while the war is against the United States, being embroiled in the conflict, the country would receive a sacrifice that the nation is urgently in need of. The people should stand against mob rule, the anarchy, for it is not the spirit of a Christian.

THIEVES MAKE BIG HAUL AT RAILROAD STATION AT BELOIT

Robbers Get Away With Nearly a Hundred Dollars in Darling Wild West Hold-up Saturday Night.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Beloit, Wis., Aug. 23.—Two robbers robbed the Chicago and Northwestern station here Saturday night of about $75 in cash and jewelry, and the hold-up in regular wild west style.

About eight-fifty in the evening Agent Hobart was approached by a man who asked the station to Cowensville, Pennsylvania. The man rapped on the door to the office and was followed by his partner, who thrust a gun in the face of the agent and directed the first man to get into a car. After the hold-up had been cleaned out the gunman told Hobart to take a good look at him and keep quiet.

As soon as the robbers left, Hobart called the police, but no trace could be found of the men. However, the agent gave the police a good description of the men and it is supposed that they will be traced down soon.

Interurban Car Fight.
Conductor Joseph Liden, on the interurban car that leaves Beloit at six o'clock last night, took to carry out the regulations of the company, which ended in a knock-out fight a few minutes later.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—There was a steady demand for cattle this morning, but quotations were ten cents lower as the result of heavy receipts estimated at 21,000.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—There was a steady demand for cattle this morning, but quotations were ten cents lower as the result of heavy receipts estimated at 21,000. A few loads of western steers brought $10.20. Steers were in good demand at a ten-cent advance. Hog trade was slow and quotations slightly above Saturday's close. A summary of the market follows:

WEDNESDAY IS DATE FOR SWIMMING MEET

Playground Activities for the Season Close on Coming Saturday—Hike Planned for Thursday.

Wednesday the third annual swimming meet of the playgrounds will be held at Goose Island, starting at two o'clock. All the entries have been secured by the directors. Because of the high water the diving events which were carded have been dispensed with, but all other scheduled events will be staged. From the present indications the number of boy entrants will exceed the girls. Intense interest is being taken in the result. On Wednesday also the first annual tennis tournament will be held. Six boys and six girls from each of the four playgrounds will be entered to try for honors. The two classes are composed of boys and girls under fifteen and over that age. One team of doubles enters to contest the singles will be entered in each class. The Washington and the Jefferson seem to have the edge on players, although the Adams and Webster may spring a few dark horses.

Over two hundred are expected to attend the final hike of the year on Thursday. Already nearly that number have expressed their desire to go. The hike will be made from the grounds at nine o'clock and will return from Crystal Springs will be made about six o'clock. Ball games and other amusements will be made for a most enjoyable day.

CITY SCHOOLS OPEN SEPTEMBER SEVENTH

Dr. Buckmaster Hopes to Open Buildings With City Free From any Contagious Disease.

President of the Board of Education, Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, announces that the schools in this city will open for the fall term on Tuesday, Sept. 7th, the day following Labor Day, which falls on the sixth this year. He reports that the schools have been looked over, and painting and carpenter work completed where needed.

Dr. Buckmaster, who is also city health officer, states that to date but one card is up for a contagious disease, this case being a light form of measles. His hopes are that when school opens not a sign of any catching epidemic will be available in any part of the city.

BEEF PRICES LOWER ON TODAY'S MARKET

Slump of Ten Cents Comes With Heavy Receipts Estimated at 21,000 Head—Sheep Higher.

POND & BAILEY

With a run of only 5,000 hogs Saturday prices advanced mostly 10c, with 10c above previous Saturday, while the average dropped 11c at $6.67, against $9.05 a year ago. Estimated average weight for the week 247 lbs., previous week 247 lbs. and year ago 244 lbs. Quotal, $6.50@7.10.

Heavy butchers and shipping 6.55@7.00.
Light butchers, 190@230 7.15@7.75.
Light bacon, 145@150 lbs. 7.45@7.85.
Heavy packing, 260@400 6.15@6.40.
Mixed packing, 200@250 6.45@6.75.
Rough, heavy packing, 6.00@6.15.
Poor to best pigs, 60@135 7.00@7.90.
Stags, 80 lbs. dockage per head 5.50@6.00.

Few Sheep on Sale.
Practically all the 2,000 sheep here Saturday were billed direct to packers. Lambs closed 10@16c above a week ago. Few natives sold at $8.75 and 85-lb. goats at $8.75. Quotations:

Lambs, common to fancy $7.90@8.85.
Lambs, poor to good culls, 5.50@7.85.
Yearlings, poor to best, 5.20@7.20.
Wethers, poor to fancy, 5.75@7.25.
Ewes, inferior to choice, 3.50@5.65.
Bucks, common to choice, 3.75@4.50.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Saturday's hog prices advanced 5c@10c to high point of week, best selling at $7.85. Cattle and lambs were nominally unchanged.

Pigs at present, owing to short supplies, are outselling heavy packing hogs $1.25@1.50 per 100 lbs., at $7.25@7.75.

Two years ago at this time, when 50@100-lb. stuff was so plentiful, pigs sold $3.25 below heavy packers, largely at $4.50.

Estimated average weight of swine this week is 8 lbs. heavier than the week of July, against a decrease of 16 lbs. same period two years ago. The large number of brood sows marketed at present argues well for heavy supplies of hogs later on.

Next week's receipts are estimated at 48,000 cattle, 110,000 hogs and 70,000 sheep, against 43,955 cattle, 133,162 hogs and 148,366 sheep a year ago.

Cattle Average Lower.
Practically no cattle were on sale Saturday. Week's average price of beef steers at $9.50, lower than previous week and 55c under record week in July, being lowest average in two months. Quotations:

Choice to fancy steers, $8.50@10.25.
Poor to good steers, 6.50@8.50.
Yearlings, fair to fancy, 7.00@10.15.
Fat cows and heifers, 6.50@9.40.
Canning cows and heifers, 3.50@5.00.
Native bulls and stags, 4.50@7.55.
Poor to fancy veal calves, 9.00@12.30.

When is a cigarette Sensible?

A cigarette is not sensible for you if it leaves your taste and your smoke-hunger a little bit unsatisfied.

—nor if it bothers your throat or tongue

—nor if it makes you "feel mean" after smoking your usual number.

None of these things will happen to you if you find (and stick to) the right cigarette.

But the cigarette that is right for one man may not be right for another. For instance, Fatimas may not just suit your taste—in spite of the fact that they are the best-selling cigarette costing over 5c.

Fatimas ARE cool and friendly to the throat and tongue—and they will NOT make you "feel mean" after smoking all you want.

So they surely are sensible for you—except possibly for the taste.

And when it comes to that, it will be mighty strange if you don't like Fatima's taste—they couldn't sell so fast if the taste weren't extra good, could they?

Why not get Fatimas this very day and find out for yourself how sensible a cigarette can really be?

STATE HIGHWAY LAW HAS A FEW CHANGES

CUT APPROPRIATION FOR COMMISSION AND LIMIT STATE'S SHARE TO $785,000 A YEAR.

STATE AID RETAINED

Inclusion of a County Committee to Control Work Jointly Is Considered Most Important Change.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Madison, Wis., Aug. 23.—Highway law changes enacted by the legislature which just closed are relatively few but important. The session deemed it necessary to decrease the appropriation for the support of the state highway commission from $1,000,000 to $785,000 a year. The new amendment to the state highway law provides that surveys and plans shall hereafter be made by the counties at county expense, but also provides specifically that in case a county board or the committee of the board dealing with state aid matters, requests the state highway commission to do so, it may make the surveys and plans as provided, and change the actual cost of the work to the county. Plans for surveys already made by the state commission will be furnished free of cost as formerly, but no further until the commission is authorized by its committee to make them in accordance with the terms of a letter recently sent to state aid road and bridge committees.

Retain State Aid Feature. Taken in connection with portions of the old law left unchanged and the provisions of the new law, a system of state aid with state supervision, much as in the past, remains in effect. The state highway commission is given power to approve plans and contracts and generally to control construction about as formerly, the county highway commissioner has charge of the actual construction, but both the state highway commissioner and county highway commissioner must act with and co-operate with a state aid road and bridge committee elected by each county board, which is the general policy and conduct of the work in each county.

The new law is not considered revolutionary or destructive. The principal change is in the inclusion of a county committee to control the work jointly. In a statement issued by the commission, this view of it is taken: "If all concerned are sincerely desirous of co-operation, control and no friction should develop, but on the contrary good should ensue. Under the new conditions, county and state officials will be jointly responsible for results, and the town chairman is given authority as to work in his own town. With good feeling and the appreciation by the state, county and town officials of the respective limits of their authority, no serious friction should develop. If either of these seek to assume what is not his, the possibilities of trouble are numerous, but it is hoped and believed that there will be little friction after little experience under the new plan."

Provides $785,000 Annually.

The bill provides $785,000 annually for state aid to highways, instead of $1,000,000 as before.

The percentage of state aid paid on bridges over six spans was increased from 10 to 25% the same as for roads. State and county aid for roads and bridge construction in cities of the fourth class is discontinued. The power of the state board to vote taxes is discontinued, and placed upon the electors of villages, towns and villages under $600,000 valuation may vote two mills; between $600,000 and $1,000,000 valuation, one and one-half mills; over $1,000,000, one mill. Twice those amounts may be voted by a three-fourths vote. Towns and villages may vote taxes this year up to November 9, previous to October 1, 1915. The board of county board action, disregarding the towns, are made more specific. If done in amounts of $5,000 or over, the state will pay 10 percent and the county 60 percent. Specific power is given the county boards to do county and state construction, and to make friendly arrangements with village, town, township, individuals and abutting property owners to help pay the cost. County boards are given power to reduce the application for state and county aid from any town or village regardless of any valuation, to $10,000, if the board shall so vote. County tax limit for all state aid purposes is reduced from three to two mills. A county state aid road and bridge committee is created to be elected by the county board to have general administrative control of state aid and bridge construction in each county. The limit of their per diem and expenses is set at $200 each per year.

Board Elect Commissioner. Examination of candidates for county highway commissioner is done away with, and the county board elects that official, at the first election for one year, or until the next election. He is to do all construction and maintenance work, as at present, except that the road and bridge committee will act as a board of directors, acting jointly with the county board, in the selection of the general conduct of the work. County highway commissioners can no longer make contracts in the name of the county.

In the future, the county board will maintain all roads built under the state highway law, whether surfaced or only graded, instead of maintaining only the surfaced roads, as at present. This applies to roads already built, but well as to be built. Town chairmen are allowed to make any repairs to state highways which may be immediately necessary, and the county shall pay for such repairs.

BELOIT MAN IS GIVEN SHORT REFORMATORY TERM

J. W. Cook will be taken to the Waupun prison today or tomorrow by Sheriff A. C. Whipple, where Cook will be confined until there is an opportunity of placing the Beloit man in the Green Bay reformatory. Cook was sentenced to the Green Bay institution by Judge John Clarke at Beloit Saturday, for grand larceny.

COLORADO MINERS CASES ARE CALLED FOR TRIAL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Boulder, Colo., Aug. 23.—When the cases of five coal strike leaders charged with murder in the Hecla battle more than a year ago were called for trial today a further postponement was expected. There were rumors that on account of popular disapproval of expense for old strike cases the indictments eventually be quashed.

Although the famous Colorado labor war was settled by nearly a year ago, the prosecution in the numerous riots which took part in the numerous riots continues. A strong popular movement is under way in the state to clean the slate of these thousand or more strike cases. The unions charge that the prosecution is one-sided and demand the indictment of operators and mine guards responsible for the loss of life on the strikers' side, especially at Ludlow.

The account of trial today were: W. T. Hickey, secretary of the State Federation of Labor; John O'Connor, president of the Louisville Local, and Edward T. Boyle, secretary-treasurer of the strikers' union for the district. Forty-seven other union men were indicted in connection with riots in Boulder county. Of four tried, two including John L. Lawson, were convicted of assault to murder, and two acquitted.

ACTION OF BRITISH UNSATISFACTORY TO THE FRENCH NATION

People of France Believe English Are Not Carrying Their Share of the Burden.

By William Philip Simms.

Paris, Aug. 6 (by mail).—Everybody in France knows it so why try to keep it secret. France is not at all satisfied with what England has done and is doing in this war. And Englishmen in France, soldiers as well as sojourners, admit France is right.

And now come stories by private conveyance from Great Britain that London is being fortified with a coat of rows of defenses running entirely around the city; that the English are saying "one never can tell what will happen," that they admit they lack ammunition and will continue to lack it even under best possible conditions for some months to come; that if the Germans make a dash for Calais and the other Channel ports with forces such as she is using around Warsaw, there will be no stopping them at present.

What do all these stories mean? The French are asking. What is the matter with England after more than one year of war? Why can't she, with all her steel mills and kindred works, turn out more than sufficient ammunition enough, in fact, to supply her allies?

"Strikes have hampered us," Englishmen in France give as an excuse for many of these questions. "Why tolerate strikes?" the French ask impatiently, "when the life of England hangs in the balance with our own and that of several other countries perhaps as well?"

Now, with fall almost at hand, England is still holding, with great effort at that, her little 30 miles of front. The French hold 600 miles. In the last month of trench fighting this proportion has not changed and many have been the time when French artillery has been called upon to support the British even along their short front.

Gabriel Hanotaux, former Minister of Foreign Affairs, a historian and unusually calm thinker, has said: "The English and the French are ill-lustrious catchwords on which we have lived for months and which, after benefiting us for a moment, have ended in doing us harm. It is not Lord Kitchener who evolved that formula so pregnant with hope but so tardy in delivery. Our forces will continue to expand unceasingly while those of the enemy will be unceasingly diminished."

Hanotaux did not express this criticism of England in private, or behind England's back. He said it in print, to England's face. Nor is that all he said. "The English Ministers are prodigal of magnificent phrases," he writes, "but their workshops were idle."

I asked an Englishman why England still held only her 30 mile front, why Kitchener's promise of more and more and still more soldiers has not been made good. His reply, in effect, was that Kitchener himself had made good his promise. He had raised the soldier.

"There are three million soldiers or thereabouts in England," he said. "But they are equipped with wooden guns."

"There are men aplenty," he said, "but they lack the necessary equipment. They have uniforms, or most of them have, but many lack belts, knapsacks and the like. And of the thousands and thousands of recruits one sees drilling around London daily, very few have rifles. They are using the sticks used before the war in Ulster with other imitations made since."

The French wholeheartedly admit that England furnished the broom which was largely instrumental in sweeping German ships and German commerce from the seas.

"But French ships have not been idle, either," they declare. "We have kept the Austrian fleet cooped up all winter and we have done all we could with the fleet in other directions. All we ask: 'Has England, like ourselves, done ALL she is able to do?'"

No doubt, France and England will stand together without flinching right on through to the end, but now there is no doubt about it, more than at any time since hostilities commenced, France is inclined to ask England to get a move on, to quit squabbling at home, and get into the fight. For every hour the war is prolonged means many lives snapped off.

Not the least part of the resentment in France is caused by British insularity. In England, as George Clemenceau, the former Prime Minister, writes, "After all Calais is only Calais." Calais is in France, a foreign country. The measures taken around London are an admission that Calais and Boulogne may fall into German hands. The French feel that if England does her duty the thing won't happen.

So the French not only think, but speak. Note—Simms sent a copy of the above to E. E. Keen, London correspondent. Tomorrow Keen's statement of the British reply.

ENCOURAGING PROGRESS

The first six months of 1915 marked another era of progress for The Old Line Life Insurance Company of America. Assets, insurance written and in force showed handsome increases over the corresponding six months in 1914. The assets now amount to $1,271,592.73.

July was the best month in the history of the Life Department in new business written. It was also the best for the Casualty and Health Department.

The progressive conservatism of the company is being amply justified. The death rate of policy holders during the five years of the company's existence is only 37 per cent of the usual actuarial estimates.

That the company has lived up to its reputation, "The Company with a Heart," is evidenced by the prompt payment of all monies due policy holders. It has been its policy to make all investments possible in the State of Wisconsin.

An attractive proposition can be made in Wisconsin just now to responsible men in the Life and Accident and Health Departments.

DELIBERATION NEEDFUL.

In this critical period in our nation's history it is fortunate that our president and his advisors are going slowly and not listening to the rampant spread eagle war talk of the jingoists. It is also pleasing to note that the press of the country is also conservative in its tone. This is a time for deliberate action, not for hasty steps that would be certain to prove unfortunate to the nation as a whole.

The sinking of the Arabic, the report that a Janesville man is among the missing, brings the war home directly to this community most forcibly. It can be disguised that the sinking of this vessel by a German submarine, without warning, and the subsequent loss of life, has increased the tension of the relations of this country and Germany, which was seriously strained by the sinking of the Lusitania.

However, as the Evening Wisconsin says: "President Wilson does well in awaiting authentic reports from American sources rather than making the first hurried rumors the basis of utterances for publication. He is setting, as he has from the first, an excellent example of the restraint whose practice he recommends to all Americans as citizens of a neutral nation."

"When he is in possession of the facts, however, there is no reason to fear that he will fail to speak and act as the facts demand. This country has dealt patiently with all the parties to the European strife, and means to continue that practice unless a point is reached at which patience is overpowered by wilful invasion of neutral rights, ceases to be a virtue. Germany's conduct has been peculiarly difficult to discuss without evidence of exasperation for the reason that it has involved the lives of American citizens who were non-combatants and who had under the law of nations a perfect right to be where they were when they were killed."

BEGIN TO REALIZE.

The tax-payers of the state are beginning to realize just what sort of a governor they have in Philipp. They will appreciate him more and more now that the legislature has adjourned and his value as an executive officer is more apparent. Hemmed in by a hostile corps of press correspondents, thwarted by a gang of unscrupulous "tax-cutters," he has been grossly misrepresented to the people of the state as a whole.

Governor Philipp has done his best to bring about a decided reduction of taxes the state through and if he has not succeeded in reaching the desired ends through methods invidious of the members of the legislature, he has succeeded in part and demonstrated that millions can be saved the tax-payers in state affairs if they will only turn their attention to it and send to Madison men whose avowed intention it is of bringing about this result.

The legislature closes its session on Tuesday. It will adjourn sine die and from that time on Governor Philipp will be in control. There are many things a governor cannot do, but there are also many he can do, and he has surrounded himself with a corps of able assistants whose object is to aid him in his work of reorganizing the state affairs and placing them on a business basis at last. Gradually the real results of the Philipp administration will be known to the state as a whole. The hostile press bureaus are even now forced to admit that a great saving has been accomplished and predict other savings in the immediate future. The farmers, the small business men, the workers, all know they have a friend in the governor. The big interests are not fearful for they know they have a fair-minded chief executive to deal with.

To be successful all interests must be united and they are at present. The governor has had as one of his able lieutenants in his work, Laurence C. Whitteit of Edgerton, speaker of the assembly. Mr. Whitteit has shown remarkable executive ability. His handled delicate situations with a conviction and firmness that has brought him the words of approval of all factions and with the closing of the legislative session he stands pre-eminent as a man to whom the people can look to to conserve their interests in time of need.

MEXICO AGAIN.

"The widely heralded 'action' of the United States in conjunction with the Pan-American republics looking to a restoration of peace in Mexico amounted to a mild-mannered suggestion to the insurgent chiefs that they get together and hold a peace conference, and brought from General Carranza, even before the note was dispatched, a not too polite invitation to this country and the other signatories to the note to mind their own business. Since the note was dispatched the only replies received have been in the form of raids on American territory, and threats against the lives of Americans in Vera Cruz. So signally has this administration's Mexican policy failed to command either the gratitude or the respect of the Mexicans that certain followers of Villa and Carranza conceived and actually undertook to carry out a scheme to seize a portion of Texas and annex it to Mexico. This scheme resulted in the killing of several American soldiers. The Carranza junta in this city predicts that the only answer to the peace note will be an emphatic "No." They say that Carranza feels that he has pacified most of Mexico and that he will permit no interference which would rob him of the "triumph of his victory." Of course the truth is that Carranza will never willingly consent to any arrangement which does not make him president. He demonstrated beyond all possible doubt when the Niagara mediation conference was held, more than a year ago, that he was actuated by personal ambition and was wholly deaf to all patriotic suggestion as well as entirely unwilling to trust to his own election by vote of the people. It is of interest that the president has so far approached an appreciation of the grave conditions existing in the territory Carranza boasts of having pacified as to send the battleships "New Hampshire" and "Louisiana" to Vera Cruz.

It is barely possible that Georgia has strangled itself with the very rope that ended the life of Leo Frank. That his death was due to religious differences in beliefs is more certain than ever and Jew baiting is not permitted in this country—to say the least.

Farmers rejoice in the weather and there are no holidays now until the crops are harvested. Taking it all in all if the frost keeps off so as to give corn a chance this is going to be a pretty good year after all.

Evansville upheld the reputation of Rock county fairs and the displays were in a class all their own. It shows what good old Rock can do to have two fairs in two weeks and such displays as were shown.

Corset workers went on a strike, and when you consider that they did not have to lace up or wear the product of the concern one can not see where their real complaint was.

The rider of the bicycle is now kicking himself back into public notice. All the world will be awoken long if they do not take to flying too soon.

Troublesome times indeed. Even the Gulf of Mexico tried to invade the United States, and at least left an impression on the Texas coast line.

It is fortunate that Rock river does not generate any tropical hurricanes although it may have other features not as desirable at times.

And to think that Georgia was supposed to be a semi-civilized community by thinking people the country through?

Subscriptions to foreign war loans is no way for the citizens of the United States to promote peace.

SNAP SHOTS

Another peculiar thing about the election college is that it has no baseball team.

Personally, I should have no objection to calling a sixteen-year-old girl a slut, but I should hesitate before marrying one.

I find it impossible to accept many of the old established beliefs. I do not believe, for instance, that a bull is worth $5 to its owner.

I have made up my mind to one thing: When I am ready to be saved I do not intend to let the job to a boy preacher.—Buck Kilby.

"His name," said Buck Kilby, referring to a man in the office, "is Frederick Garibaldi Oskensheim." "That isn't a name," jabbed good rector, "that is a speech."

"GROWN-IN-WISCONSIN" SEED FIRST CLASS

As Good as It Looks.

A new industry has developed in this state during the last ten or twelve years.

Wisconsin growers are raising not only their own seed, but are supplying the farmers of other states and countries with agricultural seed of high quality.

Here is a short summary by Henry Lutz, assistant state seed inspector, of the present seed situation in the state:

"First of all, the supply of Badger grown seed corn is excellent and there is not the least excuse for farmers to send outside the state for 'bonanza' varieties, grown in a latitude far south of this region. If they do it will be the same sad, old story—soft, milky kernels and half green silk in September, with stalks and leaves not even in good silage condition.

"Clover seed has been in great abundance—fine, high grade stuff, at reasonable prices.

"Rye was the same owing to a favorable crop last season, and seed was easy to get at fair rates.

"Oats was a partial failure last season, and consequently good seed oats this spring was not abundant. The demand exceeded the supply. Farmers were cautioned against buying western or Canadian oats lest they bring wild oats on their land, or other noxious weeds.

"Rape seed was and is scarce and high in price. Farmers must use care here also, and watch the labels on the containers.

"Sweet clover, once a wayside nondescript, is now becoming quite popular in places about the state, although it is not generally recommended for trial where alfalfa will grow just as well, and serve the purpose perhaps better. The price of sweet clover is high and the supply limited.

"As usual, alfalfa seed was found in good quantities on the market in Wisconsin. The quality as far as observed by the inspectors is good, most of it being imported from Montana and certain southwestern states."

THE DAILY NOVELETTE.

MacDropple's Attachment.
Sheriff MacDropple brought his fist down on his habes corpus vicious like.

"That circus man owes the township three weeks' rent for the grounds, and it's up to him to perfect the commonweal," he vowed, and held it till he pays up.
So that afternoon Mumbo, the giant Mexican elephant belonging to the Day-Knight half-breed circus, found himself tied in Sheriff MacDropple's back yard. Before moving he had eaten ten bales of hay; twenty yards of clothesline, seven peck of oats, three tablecloths, eleven square feet of grass sod, nineteen towels, and a barrel of sawdust.

The next day, besides the barrow load of peanuts that the sheriff brought him, Mumbo consumed Mrs. MacDropple's hat that she had just bought at the fair three years ago, a basket of flat wash and the pump handle.

On the morning of the third day Sheriff MacDropple stopped in at the town library and spent four hours over a book called "Animal Life and Why." Then he led Mumbo back to the circus and attached the boa constrictor instead.

"The book says you only eat every six months, and you don't need to expect a bit between meals, neither," said Sheriff MacDropple as he led it home by the collar.

Conquering Death and Change.
To take into the inmost shrine of the soul the irresistible force whose puppets we seem to be—Death, and Change, the irrevocability of a vanished past, the powerlessness of man before the blind hurry of the universe from vanity to vanity—to feel these things and know them to be conquer them.—Bertrand Russell.

SIDE TALKS

BY RUTH K. CAMERON

ON DRESS REFORM.

Someone wants to know if I believe in the dress reform movement with its work toward a single uniform style for women.

I believe in dress reform, but not that kind. On the contrary. Their idea, as I understand it, is to submerge the individual in a universal style. Now I should like to see the individual emerge and become a larger factor in the dress situation.

More Individuality Rather Than Less.

A universal style would be too monotonous. Variety is the salt and spice of life. We need salt and spice. Then it would be too mechanical. I would crowd out self-expression, and to my mind, dress is a part of the right and natural forms of self-expression for a woman (for a man too, but that's another story and too long to begin here. Another day). She has no right to devote time and thought and money that she owes to other things to dress, but within reasonable limits, the selection of clothes that express and bring out her best self is a healthy outlet for the creative instinct in women.

I don't mean to say, however, that have the creative instinct. And by that I don't necessarily mean anything so radical as one definite pattern after which she will have all her gowns made. My idea for the average woman is that she study herself and find out what particular lines and colors are most becoming to her and stick conscientiously close to them.

Trying Not To Be Beguiled By Unbecoming Fashions.
For instance, if you'll excuse the egotism, I'll take my own case because I know something about it. After years of study and experiment I have discovered that I look best in a short waist line, a V rather than a square neck, a broad girle above the waistline, a full skirt, and for colors light blue and brown. Now I am trying to keep to that ideal and not to be beguiled too far away from it by any style, however alluring.

I don't mean that I shall make a pattern along these lines and have all my dresses made by it, or that I shall not permit myself any variations which prove becoming, or refuse to avail myself of any dainty new quirks of fashion. I simply mean that I shall try to make my general ideal.

She Expresses Around the Shops.
One of the most attractively dressed girls I know has very little money to spend on her clothes. But she has a genius for browsing around the shops and finding things that look as if they grew on her. Girls with much more money are always envying the effects she produces. For instance, she explained, "that coat I bought and I've worn it three years. How did I get it for that? Why I bought the coat in a boys' furnishing shop and had the skirt made to match by a pattern I designed myself."

"My clothes needn't be up to the mark in fashion nor of expensive material, but they must look like me," is her motto.

It is another way of saying, "I must express my personality." I recommend it to all women for their consideration.

(3) No night for a fifteen-year-old—any night it is convenient for older people.
(4) Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: How old should a girl be before she has a suit? I am fifteen years old and I am going to high school this fall and would like to get a suit to wear if I am not too young. UNCERTAIN.
You are not too young. Girls start to wear them at your age.

Household Hints

TEA-WAGON NURSERY TABLE.
We converted a wicker tea-wagon into a nursery table most successfully.

The lower shelf held fresh supplies of clothing, the side shelves, being easily washed, held bottles of vasoline, oil and the like, and the trimmed basket stood on top. This was removed at night, when the glass tray top held thermos bottle, watch and matches for mother's use, and everything needed for the babe.

The table was wheeled close for bed time or bath time and pushed aside when not in use.

CAKE.

Cocoa Nut Cake.—Two eggs beaten separately, one cup sugar, half cup butter, one rounding teaspoon baking powder, one cup grated cocoanut, pinch of salt, half cup sweet milk, flour enough to make as stiff a batter as for any other cake.

Spice Chocolate Cake.—Two cups sugar, half cup butter, one cup milk, one teaspoon baking powder, half cake chocolate or one cup cocoa dissolved in half cup strong coffee, add three eggs, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, pinch of salt. Frosting: Beat the whites of two eggs to a froth; beat two cups sugar into a syrup; beat into the whites and spread over top of cake.

Devil's Food Cake.—Two cups of brown sugar, scant three-fourths cup butter and lard, two eggs; beat well together, then add three tablespoons each, one teaspoon vanilla; beat all together, add one cup sweet or sour milk with one level teaspoon soda dissolved in the milk; then add two and one-half cups flour and beat all nice and light. This makes two nice layers. Fudge Filling.—Two cups brown sugar, one cup water, boil till it threads, then take off stove and add butter size of a hickorynut, one teaspoon vanilla; three tablespoons cream or milk and beat till it can be spread nicely.

Apple Sauce Cake.—Two and one-half cups apple sauce, two cups brown sugar (or one cup granulated), one cup lard and butter mixed, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon allspice, one teaspoon nutmeg, two teaspoons soda dissolved in a little water, four cups sifted flour. Bake in slow oven. A cup of raisins can be added.

Loaf Cake.—One cup brown sugar, one cup sour milk, one small cup raisins, piece of butter size of an egg, one teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon salt, a little nutmeg or any spice to suit taste, enough flour to make a thick batter. Bake in moderate oven. Try with a broom straw or knitting needle; if the batter sticks it needs longer baking. This cake is improved by being kept in a stone jar for a week.

Orange Cake.—One-fourth cup butter, one cup sugar, two eggs, half cup sweet milk, one and two-thirds cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, grated rind of one orange. Bake in layers. Use juice of an orange mixed with powdered sugar for frosting.

Jam Cake (makes two cakes).—Two cups sugar, two cups jam (blackberry is fine), three cups flour, one teaspoon cinnamon, five eggs, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon vanilla, one teaspoon soda, one nutmeg, one cup butter, one cup sour milk.

Marble Cake.—White part: One cup sugar, half cup butter, half cup milk, whites of three eggs, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, two cups flour. Dark part: One cup sugar, one-fourth cup butter, one-fourth cup milk, one teaspoon cinnamon, half teaspoon allspice, half teaspoon cloves, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one cup flour, yolks of three eggs.

Pork Cake.—One cup fat pork chopped fine, one cup boiling water poured over it, one cup sugar, one cup dark cooking molasses, one teaspoon each soda, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves, one-half pound raisins, one-fourth pound currants, four and one-half cups flour (sift the flour). This makes two loaves. Bake in slow oven about one hour. Will keep a long time.

LONELY TYPIST BECOMES "AUNT LOUISA'S GIRL" AND $10,000 HEIRESS ON ILLINOIS FARM; SHE'S HAPPIEST GIRL IN STATE

Mary A. Smith, a Chicago orphan, was chosen from among a legion of young women who applied to the Chicago immigration bureau for the privilege of becoming "Aunt Louisa's girl" and also the life companion of "Uncle Jimmy" on their 500-acre farm in McHenry county, Ill. At "Uncle Jimmy's" death she will receive $10,000. James Pankhurst, the "Uncle Jimmy," wrote to the Chicago immigration office asking that a young woman be selected as a life companion for himself and wife. Miss Smith had been employed as a typist at a salary of $12 a week.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LINDVOLD

"Oh, I wish he wouldn't hold his breath. It frightens me dreadfully." Nell's voice sounded teary.

"Holding his breath?" Dick came to the bedroom with a bound. "What's dangerous?" he asked. "He disappeared and Neil still bent over him anxiously. He was nearly black in the face when Dick returned from the kitchen with a cup of water and with scant ceremony dashed it in his face. As he did, his mouth was wide open, a goodly portion of it went inside and met the surprised yell the water brought forth. A frantic cough and sputtering ensued, followed by terrified screaming. Dick had promptly seized the youngsters and was pointing him on the back to introduce air instead of water to his lungs.

When the first terrifying struggle was over Neil sank down on a chair, trembling violently.

"Dick Morton, how can you be so brutal?" he sobbed. "You almost choked him to death." "You almost choked him to death," he sobbed. "You almost choked him to death," he sobbed. "You almost choked him to death," he sobbed.

"You notice he stopped holding his breath?" There was a satisfied smile on Dick's face as he administered comforting little pats to the crying baby.

"Here now, daddy's boy will learn better than to hold his breath like that again. Eh?" He laid his cheek on the child's tumbled hair.

"I suppose what he suffers is nothing to you so long as you carry your point," said Nell bitterly.

"Carry my point? What in creation are you talking about, Nell? The point being to keep him from suffocating from holding his breath."

"I was rather anxious about carrying it. Would you have me let him die rather than surprise him with a little water?"

"Oh, he wouldn't die," Nell looked tearfully into the baby's face.

"Wouldn't he. Then what was worrying you if holding the breath is a harmless pastime?"

"But you nearly strangled him to death," she objected.

"I own I might have been less clumsy and selected some other part of his face besides that yawning chasm to receive the water, but I was rather hurried in my selection. It seemed to me he hadn't breathed for half an hour. He kissed the baby's wet cheek. 'Next time I'll let you pour the water, provided you do it quickly enough.'

"There isn't going to be any next time." There was sudden defiance in Nell's tone.

"See here, little wife, I love this boy too well to see him hurt himself in any way when I can prevent it."

All the laughter had gone from Dick's face. "I hope you are not one of those namby-pamby sentimentalists who prate of love and show only a weakly yielding whenever a child cries. This boy has got to the thing that is right as nearly as I can make him and there is no surer way to spoil a child than for one parent to try to have him mind and the other weakly indulge him."

"I haven't weakly indulged him," blazed Nell. "Your definition of weakness seems to be any expression of disapprobation of your course."

Dick went over to the crib and gently laid the sleeping baby down and pushed the tangled hair from his forehead.

"Come here." He helped his wife to rise and putting his arm around her led her to the Morris chair and sitting down drew her to his knee.

"Nell, I believe this is a crucial time in our lives. We both love that baby better than our own lives. Our best judgments may differ as to the course that should be pursued with him, but we must stand out together, and neither one must object to the course of the other before the baby does. You see? That is a vital point."

"Yes," breathed Nell.

"And you will solemnly promise to keep this contract?"

"Yes."

He folded her in his arms and kissed her to seal the vow.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl fifteen years old, weigh one hundred and twenty pounds, and am five feet five inches tall. Will you please tell me how I may reduce my weight and increase my health?

(2) Does salt water injure the hair?

(3) I would like to introduce a boy sixteen years old to a girl fifteen years old. Is it necessary to say the first and last name of Mr. and Miss So and so?

(4) What is good for nails that break after they are manicured?

YVETTE.
(1) Swimming is good to make one well proportioned. For five feet five I do not think you weigh too much, and I would not want to be any taller.

(2) Yes.

(3) Mr. and Miss So and So is all right. Both names are given something in order to make things less stiff and formal.

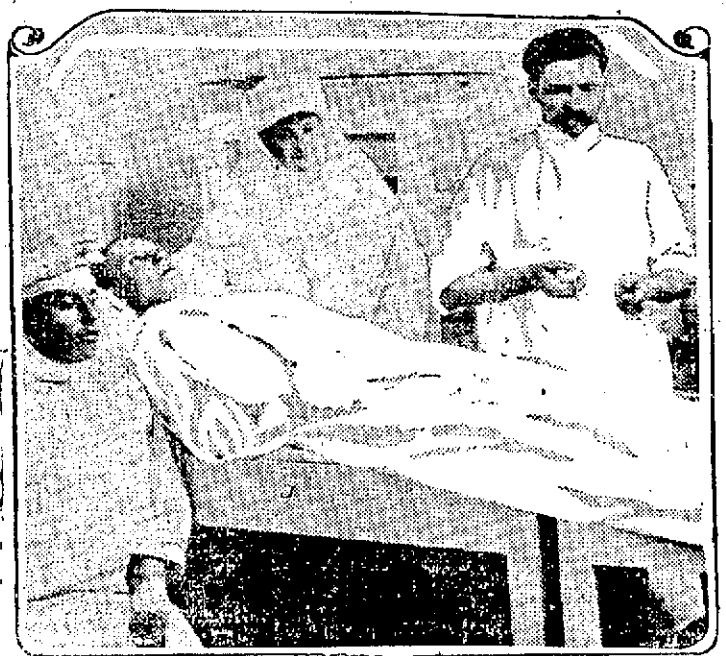

(4) Rub vasoline on them every night.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: If a person goes to visit a friend out of town is the friend supposed to furnish the umbrellas, if needed, or is the guest supposed to bring her own?

UNUS.
The friend ought to be willing to furnish an umbrella so that her guest need not be troubled with one on the trip. Usually an umbrella is not carried when starting out on a trip unless it is raining or threatening rain at the time.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) There is a boy whom I know and whom I used to be madly in love with, but now I don't like him so much, because some time when I see him he is so distant and at other times he is just fine. So I just treated him the same

Pauline Siebenthal.

At a recent athletic meet, Pauline Siebenthal, a student at the University of Indiana, set a new record for girls in the pole vault, clearing 6 feet 1 inch. Miss Siebenthal is also an expert at basketball and tennis, and attempted to get up a girls' baseball team in college this year.

SHE INTRODUCES SURPLICE COATS TO THE SMART SET

Mrs. Richard Stevens wearing surplice coat.

The social elite who attended the recent tennis tournament at Newport stared in amazement at Mrs. Richard Stevens when she appeared wearing one of the finest surplice lace coats. There isn't a doubt but the innovation is going to become popular, not only in exclusive society but even among those who are not so fortunate, or otherwise, as to travel in the "smart set."

"Why, really I cannot tell," for I have no conception either way. There must have been a dozen altogether in the house, and doubtless others were on guard without. Hasn't it ceased storming?"

"Yes, I wonder what time it is; why I actually believe the sky is becoming lighter in the east already."

She stared out intently, and then sank to her knees.

"Come over here quick! They are getting ready for something."

I swept my eyes over Nichols, who lay motionless, his arms folded across his face. To my mind the fellow was acting a part, and was not half as badly injured as he pretended to be. However, he could do us no great harm at present, and I stole silently across the room, and knelt beside her. She held the curtain aside, leaving just space enough for my eyes. For an instant the glow of the burning building blinded me, and intensified the surrounding darkness. I shadowed my eyes with my hand.

"Where are the men you saw? To the left?"

"Yes—back under the trees, close to the first negro cabin; see! just where I point."

Once located I could perceive the shadowy outline, which grew more distinct as I gazed. There were men there beyond doubt; it seemed to me twenty or thirty, although it was impossible to judge the number. But the shadow seemed to be disintegrating. Even as my eyes focused it, a section moved to the right, and then another swung into the open, circling along the orchard fence.

"There is a slew of them," I muttered unthinkingly. "Anse meant to have company at his wedding."

"Oh, hush!—her hand caught my sleeve. "They—they are coming back the house now."

CHAPTER XII.

A Marriage by Duress.

Daylight was coming; the gang meant to search the house again, perhaps fire it as they had the stable, and then ride away before the Federal garrison at Lewisburg could receive the alarm. I turned away from the window to perceive Nichols sitting up on the edge of the bed.

"What's ails?" he asked.

"The stable," I answered, crossing the room. "Get down in the corner, where you cannot be seen from the windows. Oh, yes you can; you are not so badly hurt. Miss Noreen, is there any other place better than this in which to hide?"

She shook her head.

"Well, then we must fight it out here if they come; you have your revolver—ah! the squad is already below, listen!"

We stood side by side, scarcely breathing, close to the bolted door.

The flames of the burning stable were dying down, yet there was sufficient light to render every object in the room plainly visible. Intent as I was on every slight sound below and without, I kept my eyes on Nichols, seated dejectedly in one corner. Feet tramped noisily back and forth in the lower hall, and the sound of voices reached us, the words indistinguishable. There was an echo of splintered wood, the crash of dishes, and a loud laugh. The fellows seemed to be looting the kitchen and pantry, destroying whatever they could not use. Suddenly there arose a sound of smashing glass at the front of the house, and the tinkling of a piano as if some rough hand swept across the keys. Noreen pressed closer, lifting her eyes in appeal.

"They—they are searching the house," she whispered, her voice shaking. "and—looting it. Do you hear that? They are even tearing the carpet from the floor. Some of them will come up here."

"I am afraid so—but you must not lose your nerve. We shall have to fight!"

"Fight? yes; but what use?" and she grasped my arm with both hands. "I—I would not be so afraid, only for that man. I cannot fall into his power. I will kill myself first! You do not know Anse Cowan; but I do. I would rather die than have his hands touch me. I hate and despise him; he is an incarnate brute—and—and he is here after me!"

"Hush," I urged, holding her tightly, her slight form trembling. "Do not let go yet; they may not even come up the stairs."

"But they will," she insisted. "I tell you I know the man. He—he swore he would marry me two years ago; he told me so, and I laughed at him. He stopped my father on the road, held a rifle to his head, and boasted that some day he would make me pay his debts. This is no mere incident of war—it is revenge! I—I would not be frightened but for that—that awful alternative. Tell me—tell me what to do!"

She stared pleadingly into my face, but, reading no answer there to her wild appeal, sank to her knees, and buried her face in her hands. All that was strong about the girl seemed swept away by sudden uncontrollable terror—by dread of Anse Cowan. A hoarse, strange voice roared out an order, seemingly from the very foot of the stairs.

"That's enough of that, Samuel! Here, take your men up above. Be lively now, and don't let a rat get away."

The girl lifted her head; then got to her feet, clinging to the bedpost. I could see the glitter of a pistol in her hand. A thought swept through my brain—so daring, so reckless, I gasped at the mere wildness of the suggestion. Yet it might answer; it might succeed! But would she consent, even in her desperation, in the extreme of her terror, would she grasp at such a straw? There was nothing else—not another chance. This might not be one—yet it would surely serve to delay; it would place me in between her and Anse Cowan. She could not legally marry him, if she were once my wife! Only the girl whose eyes just then met mine—

"I—I have thought of one way," I said eagerly, the words coming forth almost incoherently. "That is if you will listen to what I propose. There is nothing else feasible so far as I can see. They—they are in the front rooms now—hear them! We haven't a moment to lose. Will you—will you consent to marry me?"

She shrank back a step, staring at me with wide-opened eyes, breathing heavily.

"Marry! marry you?" she faltered wildly. "Why what can you mean! I—I do not understand!"

"Of course not—the conception is wild, impractical, perhaps. It must seem so to you—yet listen. It is the one way left open to save you from Anse Cowan. You can trust me? You do trust me, do you not?"

"Yes—but—"

"There is no time to question. They are coming here now, those fellows with Anse Cowan at their head. You know what for. The question is not do you wish to marry me; but do you trust me more than you do Anse Cowan? Listen! it will be a form only—I am not conceited enough to believe you desire me for your husband. But you know who I am; you have confidence in my honor. He cannot marry you if you are already my wife—"

"He—he could kill you."

"Yes, there are enough of them; but that might happen anyway. No doubt it would, for otherwise I should fight to the end. I do not think being your husband will add in the least to my danger—and it will possibly, legally, protect you."

"But how can I? Will it be legal?"

"Noreen, don't stop to argue, or doubt," I urged, grasping her hand in caress. "We haven't time. Listen to those voices in the hall! Of course it will be legal—Nichols is an ordained minister, and no license is required. I shall never attempt to hold you, Noreen, and any court will set you free the moment you tell the story. The one, the only thing, for you to consider now, is escape from Anse Cowan."

"You do this—to save me?"

"To keep you from falling helplessly into the clutches of a beast—tell me yes! My God, girl, there they are now trying the door! Answer—will you?"

"Yes—yes, Tom Wyatt—"

With one leap past her I had Nichols by the collar, the muzzle of my revolver at his head. A heavy foot crashed against the looked door, and a voice without gave utterance to an oath.

"Marry me to this girl," I commanded sternly. "Come now, not a word; don't wait to ask a question. Noreen, take my hand—"

"Open up in there or we'll break down the door!" came hoarsely from the hallway.

My eyes never left Nichols' face. What he read of threat I know not, but his lips began to stumble through the form, though I could scarcely distinguish a word. His face was gray with terror, and I dared not look aside at the silent girl—only I vaguely realized that the hand held in mine trembled, and once, when she had to speak, the two words uttered were almost a sob.

Never surely was there a stranger marriage in all the world. The dying embers of the stable fire shot red gleams of flame over us through the unshaded windows, giving Nichols a ghastly look, and glowing on the steel barrel of the revolver I held poised at his head. His voice faltered and broke, and clotted blood rendered hideous one side of his face, while his hands shook as if with palsy. All the sneaking coward in him was manifest. Outside a dozen voices roared, one rising gruff above the others shouting orders. Once a single shot crashed through the upper panel of the door and broke the glass of a window opposite. The girl, startled, reeled against me, and the preacher stopped, gasping for breath.

"No firing, you fool!" roared a deep voice angrily. "We don't want any dead ones—beat down the door!"

"Go on!" I ordered grimly, and thrust the black muzzle hard against his cheek. The preacher choked, but the usual words of the ritual—sounding almost like mockery—dropped mechanically from his tongue.

"And now I pronounce you man and wife, and whom God hath joined together, let not man put asunder. Amen."

She gave vent to a little sobbing cry, half stifled in her throat, and shrank away from me. I knew that her face was buried in her hands, yet had no time to look that way, or utter a word. Rifle butts were crashing in the panels of the door; I could perceive already dim figures revealed through the jagged openings made in the light wood, a vista of faces, a gleam of weapons.

"Hit lower down!" yelled the same gruff voice of command. "There is a bolt that holds fast—reach in, Saunders!"

"Get back—beyond the bed," I called, pushing her behind me, and bracing myself for the first shock. The door gave, sagging aside on its hinges, and half falling inward, and through the opening men tumbled forward, carbines gripped in their hands. The red light gleamed ghastly across their faces and revealed—the blue uniform of Federal cavalry.

CHAPTER XIII.

Before Lieutenant Raymond.

The headlong rush stopped in startled amazement at sight of us, and I stood there staring at them, unable to speak, my revolver lowered. In that instant of pause, an officer thrust the men aside and faced me, sword in hand.

"What does this mean, sir? Who are you?" he questioned, sweeping his glance over my uniform, and then beyond me at the two others.

"I would ask the same question," I returned, not yet assured as to whom I confronted, and suspecting some trick. "We believed ourselves attacked by guerrillas. Are you soldiers?"

"Well, rather," with a short, grim laugh. "These are Pennsylvania cavalrymen. My name is Raymond, and I demand to know, first of all, where you got possession of that Third U. S. cavalry uniform."

Perhaps in his excitement he had not really recognized her before; but these words were scarcely out of his mouth when the lady stood beside me, facing him. I caught one swift flash of her eyes as though warning me to silence. Whatever fear she had formerly felt seemed to have left her in this crisis, for she stood erect, her cheeks flushed, her eyes frankly meeting those of the surprised officer.

"You will, however, recognize me, Lieutenant," she said pleasantly, and extended her hand; "and if you will listen I think I can clear up the mystery."

"Miss—Miss Harwood," he murmured, slightly embarrassed, but still belligerent, his glance wandering from her face to mine. "Certainly—we hoped to find you here. It was to rescue you we came—at least it was that hope which led me to request the sending of troops, and to accompany them. This outrage has been committed, I believe, by Cowan's gang, and this man here—"

"Is my friend," she interrupted quietly. "Lieutenant Raymond, if you will kindly order your men to retire I will gladly explain his presence in the house."

"You wish to speak to me alone?"

"Not necessarily; but I certainly prefer greater privacy than this. You are in command?"

"No; Captain Whitlock is below."

He turned toward the crowd blocking the doorway and I grasped the opportunity to breathe a hasty word of warning into the ear of Nichols. The girl never glanced again at either of us.

"Take the men back into the hall, sergeant," the lieutenant ordered, "and look through whatever rooms have not been visited. Request Captain Whitlock to join me here."

We waited motionless, the lieutenant's hand on the butt of his revolver, as though he half suspected treachery. Twice he endeavored to open conversation with the lady, but her response was not encouraging, and he evidently did not feel safe except with his eyes on me. Raymond fronted me, a tall, well-proportioned fellow, with incipient mustache, black and curled at the points; a rather long face, and eyes sternly serious. There was about him an appearance of force—a bit of a bully I should say—and his uniform was new, and carefully fitted.

A man stood in the doorway, bowing, his mild blue eyes surveying us nervously. He sported a light beard, closely trimmed, the top of his head scarcely reaching to the lieutenant's shoulder. Miss Noreen greeted him with a welcoming smile, and he stepped gallantly forward, bending low as he accepted her hand.

"So pleased, so delighted, Miss Harwood, to find you safe and well. We were, indeed, greatly worried at the thought of your being here alone."

he exclaimed, a slight lisp in his voice. "You have not suffered, I trust?"

"Not seriously, Captain Whitlock; the guerrillas were outwitted."

"Ah! do not attempt to explain, I beg. We understand what you have passed through, as we have captured two of the villains. You sent for me, Lieutenant Raymond?"

"Yes, sir, I did," the young officer's expression exhibiting clearly the contempt he felt for his superior. "I preferred that you decide what shall be done with this fellow," pointing at finger at me. "Miss Harwood vouches for him, but I fail to understand how he comes to be in the uniform of my regiment."

The captain fitted a pair of glasses to his eyes and surveyed me with care.

"Why, bless me, so he is," he ejaculated, "and you never saw him before?"

"No, and there is not another Third U. S. cavalryman west of the Alleghenies."

Dinner Stories

An English soldier, a member of the Second South Staffordshire Regiment, says that one bitterly cold night in the early spring he and his mates came out of the trenches. They were billeted in a barn, where they were packed in very close.

"Though numb with cold, we were soon asleep," said the soldier in telling the incident. "I was awakened in the night by one of our chaps trying to put his boots on. After he had been trying for a minute or two I heard the fellow next to him say: 'What the— are you doing?'

"Putting my boots on," was the reply.

"Well, that's my foot, you fool!"

"My boy," he said, "you don't tell me you get that much every week, do you?"

"That's right, dad."

"Well, well," said the old gentleman, thoughtfully. "Is that so? What other chores do you have to do besides acting?"

A REAL CHAMPION OF MIDDLEWEIGHTS AWAITED BY FANS

A Real Dyed in the Wool Champion Expected to Come to Front Soon Within the Present Season

By George R. Holmes.

New York, Aug. 23.—All things come to those who wait. It is an old proverb, apparently one that a little truth concealed about its person.

The pugilistic world has been waiting, for these many years, for the clouds to roll away from the middle-weight tangle and reveal a champion. In a seemingly unending procession Eddie McGoorty, Jim Clabby, Mike Gibbons, Jack Dillon, Al McCoy, George Chip, Young Ahearn and others of dimmer lights have passed before the assembled multitude and then faded, bickering and quarreling, into the background.

But by this time next month there should be a middleweight champion for the public to shove its shekels through the wicker gate to see. According to the old reliable dope, the championship lies between three men: Mike Gibbons, Packey McFarland and Les Darcey. Who is that guy? He's the guy that put the sleep-kiss on Eddie McGoorty's chin down in Australia not long since, thereby winning for himself at least consideration.

There won't be much dispute about the winner of the McFarland-Gibbons quarrel, being considered the classic thing on the middleweight shelf. But how he's going to get away from a meeting with this Darcey person is another thing. In the long time has been considered one of the few real claimants to the championship, and in some parts of Wisconsin, he has been considered the champion. Therefore, the man who can give away should be not lightly considered.

The field has practically narrowed down to these three. George Chip is too aged, Young Ahearn is a mile too heavy, and besides he's going where there is some real fighting and no weight bickering to Europe. Jimmy Clabby should horn into the argument somewhere, but seems hasn't displayed his wares for several months and in his last few times he didn't win a lot of glory for himself. That leaves Al McCoy and Jack Dillon. Al admits he owns the championship, but as a result of his placing a knocking on George Chip. Al is about the only one who does admit it, however. His actions out of the ring are about the only thing that stuns him, and he seldom fights and he demands big chunks of money when he does.

If Jack Dillon could still make 155 pounds and he can, he'd have to be considered in this thing all the way. But he can't, at least he hasn't for months, and doesn't seem to care to. Why not have the winner of the Pry-Mike affair make a starve and settle it all when there'd be real champ in every department for the first time in many years.

Montreal is making a bid for the pugilistic spotlight. Twenty-round battles to a decision are to be allowed there before it comes time to put on your heavyies.

Word from Walter Burke, formerly manager of several fighters, was that he had secured permission from the city authorities to stage marathon events, and he has taken over the Hochstadt A. C. with prospects for a good season.

Montreal in wartime, with most of the men at the front, doesn't look like an especially alluring field, but Burke is confident he can put it over. The club could draw some patronage from New York for a championship affair, but its far away away for Kothman sports to travel to see the smaller fight, especially if they're going to see decision fights here.

PICKING WINNER HARD JOB IN A. C. CIRCUIT

Milwaukee, Aug. 23.—St. Paul, lending team in the American association since the middle of July, went into second place on Sunday night, giving way to Minneapolis. The latter team gained first place by winning all of the nine games played during the week, while St. Paul won two and lost six. Louisville and Indianapolis found themselves practically tied for third place Sunday night, the former team having won seven games and lost two during the last seven days, while the latter club won three, lost five and tied one. Kansas City won but one out of seven games played, and was sent into ninth place, Louisville going into the first division. Milwaukee won six and lost three, going into sixth place, ahead of Cleveland. Columbus won three out of eight, but made no marked progress from last place.

EDDIE GHARRITY GOING TO WASHINGTON AMERICANS

Eddie Gharrity of Beloit, who has been catching for the Minneapolis Association team this year, will go with the Washington American league team on their training trip the coming spring. The Senators exercised on option on the Beloit boy and his friends in Jansville hope to see him make good in the "big show."

N. B. Beasley, who is on the road with the Detroit Tigers for the Detroit Tribune, says the Boston Red Sox twirlers are making a practice of using the "bean ball." He claims that Manager Carrigan of Boston is working this trick over and over again in one of the games that the Tigers played at the Hub Leonard threw at least five balls at the heads of the Detroit batsmen. Beasley claims that the Tigers had been warned to look out for the trick, and that they thus escaped being injured.

SOX TROUNCE YANKS TWICE; WHALES WIN

26,000 Watch White Stockings With Jackson Trim Donovan's Men.

—Gain on Detroit.

By a double victory over the Yanks Sunday at Sox park, Rowland's slug-ging team hit Detroit half a game on Detroit and once more has given the Chicago fans an optimistic viewpoint of a championship in Chicago. A pair of hits by Jackson during the eighth round indicated that he will be a great aid to the white hose during the remainder of the season. The scores yesterday were 2 to 2 and 5 to 0. Russell relieved Benz in the first contest, his team-mates scoring a rallying in the eighth that netted four runs. Faber held his own in the second encounter, shutting out the visitors. One more game today with the Yankees and then the Senators will be met.

Mordecai Brown has again won a remarkable game, based almost entirely on his hurling. He held the Buffalo Reds to two scattered singles and won 4 to 0 for Weegham's hopes. The Whales are but a game and a half in the lead, despite the fact that they are in fourth place. The Cubs remained idle Sunday.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, Phila pitching phenom, has a good chance to smash some few-hit pitching records that have stood the onslaught of hurlers for 25 or 30 years. He has pitched three one-hit games in half a season. Little Natty, sensational southpaw hurler for the Baltimore American association team, buried three one-hit and one no-hit games way back in 1885, whiffing 17 men in the four games.

Hugh Day, famous one-armed player of the old Chicago Union association team, has four one-hit games in a season to his credit. Jimmy Galvin hit 1884 pitched two one-hit games and a no-hit game. Henry Garfield duplicated his feat in 1890. Tim Keefe buried three one-hit games in 1883 for the New York Giants.

Isn't Frank Baker exerting himself or have they some real pitchers in that Delaware County league, where the "home run king" is rusting at present? That's a big question—and a vital one. Baker, during his long career with the Athletics, faced some of the best pitching in the world—faced it and beat it to a frazzle. He showed no weakness. He was able to hit practically every kind of ball that was served up to him. Year after year he slugged far above the .300 mark. And now, this same Baker, playing in this blustery of bush leagues, is hitting for an average around .295. What do you make of it, Sherlock?

KING FOOTBALL SOON TO BE IN LIMELIGHT

COLLEGE GRIDIRON ELEVEN SOON WILL HOLD ATTENTION OF SPORT WORLD.

SCHEDULES INCREASED

This Season Promises to be Greatest in History of Game. Because of Revised Schedules.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Aug. 23.—With the issuing of mobilization orders for the moleskin brigades of more than a thousand colleges and schools throughout the country, football leaders are preparing for the greatest gridiron campaign in the history of the sport. Within the next few weeks the initial games of the season will be played and each succeeding Saturday will witness a steadily increasing schedule of contests until the crest of the sport is reached late in November and the play declines to the final matches of early December.

Not since the days of the seventies, when American intercollegiate football was born, has there been an autumn which held forth as much in the way of gridiron activity as that of 1915. According to the official schedule prepared by the rules committee close to 3,000 games will be played by leading college and school teams of the United States between September 12 and December 4.

During this period of a trifle less than eighty days there will be more than one thousand games between the colleges and schools, and many of these will be played on the college and college and college and college grounds. Games are scheduled for every day in the week except Sunday and if evenly divided between Monday and Saturday would average close to forty per day.

The honor of opening the season falls to four Pennsylvania institutions for the Carlisle Indians play Albright and Bucknell meets Bloomsburg. Normal school in the initial games of the autumn on Saturday, September 12. One week later the activity will spread to scores of time-marked fields, for more than one hundred teams play the opening games of their schedules including Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia, Vanderbilt, Oberlin, Colorado, Oregon and many other eastern, western and southern elevens.

Cornell will not begin play until the final days of the month but Saturday, October 2 will see the leading university and college teams of all sections lining up in contests, some of which can hardly be classed as preliminary games. Princeton will meet Rutgers whose team has been looking forward to this match for almost a year. The day will also mark the debut of the United States Military and Naval academy elevens against Holy Cross and Georgetown respectively. Still other teams to take the field for the initial games include Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Texas, Nebraska, Mississippi and Missouri.

Michigan, like Cornell, has selected a midweek opening game and will join the Saturday brigade on October 9 when a number of promising contests are scheduled. While the baseball fans are anxiously awaiting the onset of the World's series, football followers will watch with interest the results of such games as Cornell vs. Williams; Harvard vs. Carlisle; Princeton vs. Syracuse; Navy vs. Pittsburgh; Pennsylvania vs. Pennsylvania; Minnesota vs. Iowa; Notre Dame vs. Haskell and Yale vs. Lehigh.

A week later the leading games of Saturday will include Colgate vs. Dartmouth; Army vs. Georgetown; Navy vs. Virginia Poly; Chicago vs. Purdue; Michigan vs. Michigan Aggies; Pennsylvania vs. Pittsburgh; Texas vs. Oklahoma; Yale vs. Washington; Cornell vs. Cornell; Ohio State; Georgia vs. Virginia; Minnesota vs. Iowa.

The final Saturday of October is marked by several intercollegiate games. Michigan meets Syracuse; Cornell faces Virginia Poly, and the Michigan Aggies play the eleven of the Oregon Agricultural College. Other important contests on the same day include: Army vs. Georgetown; Navy vs. Virginia Poly; Chicago vs. Purdue; Michigan vs. Michigan Aggies; Pennsylvania vs. Pittsburgh; Texas vs. Oklahoma; Yale vs. Washington; Cornell vs. Cornell; Ohio State; Georgia vs. Virginia; Minnesota vs. Iowa.

The opening of November finds the leading elevens gyrating together in the final games of the season. Michigan meets Syracuse; Cornell faces Virginia Poly, and the Michigan Aggies play the eleven of the Oregon Agricultural College. Other important contests on the same day include: Army vs. Georgetown; Navy vs. Virginia Poly; Chicago vs. Purdue; Michigan vs. Michigan Aggies; Pennsylvania vs. Pittsburgh; Texas vs. Oklahoma; Yale vs. Washington; Cornell vs. Cornell; Ohio State; Georgia vs. Virginia; Minnesota vs. Iowa.

The final games of many college elevens will be played on Saturday, November 20. The annual contest between Harvard and Yale at Cambridge stands pre-eminent on the day's card but there are other games of importance scheduled including Colgate at Georgetown; Dartmouth at Syracuse; Illinois at Chicago; Minnesota at Wisconsin; Denver at Colorado; Mississippi at Arkansas and Missouri at Kansas.

Close of Season. Thanksgiving day will see Pennsylvania and Cornell playing at Philadelphia; Carlisle Indians at Brown; Syracuse tackling the University of Montana at Missouri; Notre Dame playing Texas at Austin; Mississippi facing Alabama at Birmingham; Penn. State at Pittsburgh; Kentucky State at Tennessee; Louisiana at Tulane; North Carolina at Virginia; Southern California playing the Oregon Aggies at San Francisco and Vanderbilt meeting that University of the South at Nashville.

The season will close in the east on Saturday, November 27 with the annual Army-Navy game played in New York City. This year, but will continue for another week in the south and west. Notre Dame will close an autumn of much travel by playing Rice Institute at Houston, Texas, the Oregon Aggies at San Francisco and Vanderbilt meeting that University of the South at Nashville.

MORRIS MILLER

There will be no more baseball contests in Kansas City between the American Association and the Federals as under the schedules each team will have the field to itself. The Cardinals are admitted in association circles that the Federals have been organized ball in the matter of crowds in Kansas City this season. The Cardinals are quoted as saying, "but the unpopularity of Tebeau in the beginning and the fact that the Fed team has been in the pennant fight in its league almost from the opening of the season. Then, the Cardinals in Kansas City have had only a minor league article of ball to compare against. 'The Blues play better ball than the Fed's,' and Kansas City fans are quoted as saying, 'but the crowd is with the Fed's because of the popularity of the people backing the Fed club.'"

Baseball players are the victims of a handsome and very unexpected tribute. A Colorado court has decided that such persons are working-men and are subject to the same under the workmen's compensation act. Injuries received on the field of action must be paid for by the magnates, according to the legal decision. The Colorado court has decided that the players are working-men and are subject to the same under the workmen's compensation act. Injuries received on the field of action must be paid for by the magnates, according to the legal decision.

Armando Marsans, Cuban outfielder who jumped from the Cincy Reds and signed with the St. Louis Cardinals, has been getting $333.33 every half month since, despite the fact that an injunction prevents him playing with the Reds. But he testified in court seeking to end the injunction, that this money is not salary—it's a loan he has to pay back, and the Reds are playing 10-cent ball these days.

According to President McGill of Indianapolis, the case of Pitcher Sanford Burk, who jumped to the Pittsburgh Pirates and was enjoined, was a most flagrant case of ingratitude. McGill had given Burk money in advance, had paid off a mortgage he owed on a moving picture theater, and had done him a million other favors in a financial and business way. Yet at the first chance to throw his benefactor down Burk was the Johnny boy to do it.

According to a report in Los Angeles, Babe Borton, now playing first base for the St. Louis Fed's, has let it be known that he would like to get released from the Federals and return to organized ball, if it could be arranged. Intimations from Ed Maier, president of the Vernon club, from which Borton jumped, are, however, to the effect that there is nothing doing.

When should a catcher call for a pitch-out? Is the waste ball a good defense? These two questions were shot at Hugh Jennings. His reply was: "There is only one out and out reliable hit and run batter in the American league." Jennings was asked by a Washington club. With only one such consistent hit and runner why should catchers be so prone to call for pitch-outs? Two of the best catchers who ever lived were Duke Farrell and Wilbert Robinson. Seldom did either call for a pitch-out except when Willie Keeler was at the bat, for he could hit to any field. My belief is that a catcher should be called for but rarely, and never if the pitcher shows a tendency to be wild. There is an opposite rule to be followed as well, which is never hit and run on a pitcher is wild, as a hit on balls is much more to be desired than the chance of poking a ball through vacated territory."

Tony Hart, famous as an outfielder and hitter, formerly with the Indianapolis, and a member of Connie Mack's champion Athletics, and later manager of the Toledo teams in the American Association and the Southern Michigan League, is out of the game for good. Hart's last engagement was with Fort Wayne, but because the famous player has slowed up he has been given his release by Manager Wade Myers. Hart has returned to his home in Toledo and will seek other pursuits, realizing that his days as a baseball player are over.

CARDINALS BEATEN BY MT. MORRIS IN POOR GAME, 5 TO 1

Bob Fucik Tries to Pitch Two Games in Two Days and Loses Last.—Many Boots by Infield.

Playing mighty poor ball behind Bob Fucik, on one of his off days, together with a disastrous assault in the seventh inning by heavy clotting, the Mt. Morris nine gave the Jansville Cardinals a wallowing Sunday afternoon at the Association Park diamond by the score of 5 to 1. The Cardinal infield opened up plenty of holes for the Illinois champs to put tallies through, by bad boots, and made misplays that were never meant to win ball games.

Fucik was far from being right. It appears that Bob attempted to overwork that powerful right arm, pitching a number of innings Saturday at Mount Morris and as a consequence was unable to twirl with his usual form. At that he was not hit hard, allowing but five hits. The Mt. Morris lads knew when to blast out their drives, when the big spit came a hit. Bob was not the only one to fault for the dropping of the game, for the Cardinal infield, with the exception of Korman, put some skids under the game ball during errors. Ryan was the chief offender, musing up four fast grounders that were quite easily and once paved the avenue for the first tally. "Denny" Blake worked well on second as usual, but slipped up on two in the seventh when the big blow-off came.

Mt. Morris has a creditable baseball team, playing well, and having the old reserve batting strength in the pinches. "Jeff" Clarke, former Rockford leaguer, was their slab artist and he had something on the Cardinals all morning, allowing but seven hits and these were scattered like the Russians beating it from Warsaw. The fielders in the outer gardens were all stars, and Mahoy craved the Cardinal chances by a sensational catch in the seventh inning.

Mt. Morris scored one in the opening inning when Fucik walked. McCosh and a moment later caught him flat-footed off first. Nelson, putting the ball on him like lightning, Herschfield rolled one down to short and Ryan made his first miff. Main stepped up and slammed out a nice single and Clark, the pitcher, spread the riot act by trouncing off a long single. Main was caught at the plate on the play.

The Cardinals made a strong bid to tie the count when Korman singled and Nelson was hit by a foul ball and was out. Blake forced Korman at second and "Home Run" Curtis singled. Ryan walked and with everybody riling for a run, Rasmussen ended the inning, grounding out to second.

Fucik mastered the Mt. Morris nine until the third and seventh despite his wild delivery, for Bob was walking the visitors in nearly every round. The Cards managed to touch Clark rather frequently, but lacked the necessary gumption to put the runners further than third base. The Mt. Morris aggregation slammed one more across in the bloody third when Main was put to first on a walk. Main stole second and took third on Clark's out at first and made home when Rasmussen let a wild pitch slip through him. The run was a present pure as a sample.

The Cardinals put a little life into the game in the fifth inning, when Blake scored on an error by the third baseman, the only one the visitors made. Blake stepped to bat and crowned the ball for a while of a hit that went for three bases. An over-throw sent him home.

Then came the terrible seventh, when the Cardinals' defense was a dismal failure. Discher fled out to Curtis and Mahoy took first when Nelson dropped a throw to first and second on Blake's error on a steal. McCosh walked, adding to the misery, and Mahoy scored on Herschfield's single. The runner took second on Blake's second boot and two runs tallied on Main's long single. Main was caught at second trying to stretch his hit into a double. Park hit safely and the inning ended when Nelson scooped up a liner and beat Stage to the sack. Everything went one, two, three thereafter.

Lineups: Jansville—R. Fucik, p.; Rasmussen and Hall, c.; Ryan, ss.; Nelson, 1b.; Blake, 2b.; Korman, 3b.; Berger, 4b.; McCosh, cf.; Chamberlain, rf.; M. Morris—Clark, p.; McCosh, c.; Herschfield, 1b.; Stage, 2b.; Smith, 3b.; Herrigan, ss.; Misaler, lf.; Main, cf.; Mahoy, rf.

proved to be a real official. The way the Mt. Morris nine began slugging the ball in the seventh was a shame and these, along with the boots, gave a justy kick off the Cardinal shelf.

Fucik pitched eight innings for the Olympics at Madison and won his game and that is one reason why his score was not reversed, but he would have had to have better support than given yesterday to beat the juvenile Red Sox.

Manager Caldwell departed this morning with Jack Korman for Chicago in a hunt for two new players.

Rasmussen had his finger split in the seventh and Hall went behind the bat. The victors yesterday may play a return game here later in the season.

The Washington club has been beaten in every game played in Boston this year. Clark Griffith finds no novelty in this experience, for in 1901 the Chicago White Sox, then under Griffith's command, lost each and every game played on the old Huntington avenue grounds, and yet won the pennant at that.
